This 16-hour course presented over 2 days addresses how new laws have increased criminal and civil exposure for law enforcement officers and the specific operational changes you should make in response.

De-escalation should be more than a training course, it should be a culture. But creating that culture starts with great training. Today's officers need to know the specific tactics they can use to avoid a violent confrontation. They need a rock-solid understanding of new use of force laws and liability cases so they can make well-informed decisions. They deserve a modern, highly-specialized training where the focus is on learning, not checking a box.

In these times, there is no more high-liability occupation than being a patrol officer. But in order to make them successful, it takes a team of highly trained dispatchers, supervisors and training staff. To be on the same page, your team needs to all be trained the same way.

Course Curriculum Includes:

- ✓ Tactical Conduct: Pre-Contact Assessments, Incident Coordination and Decision Making
- ✓ New Use of Force Laws: Why Police Officers Are Being Criminally Charged
- ✓ How to Offer De-Escalation When Appropriate
- ✓ Videos of De-Escalation Successes and Failures
- ✓ Articulating Use of Force Decisions
